

Divinely

THERE'S no doubt about it — Bette Midler loves the camera.

The zany star of film, stage and record showed her style in this special pictorial session.

Bette has every reason to be happy with life. She's followed up her film smashes Down And Out In Beverly Hills and Ruthless People with the current box-office smash Outrageous Fortune.

Incidentally, the man in these photos is none other than the Divine Miss M's husband Martin von Haselberg, who got into the spirit of things and donned an incredible selection of moustaches and costumes for the session.

Not that Bette's a shrinking violet when it comes to publicity.

She quickly changed from redhead to blonde as she parodied old-time movie star glamor.

daffy!

